What is the Supervised Visitation/ Exchange Program?

The Supervised Visitation/Exchange Program was created to provide a safe, neutral and friendly surrounding that would encourage positive and comfortable interaction between non-custodial parents and children. There was a void in our community for a supervised visitation program outside of what was being provided by Ross County Children's Services and this need was realized by the Child Protection Center, Common Pleas Judges and Ross County Commissioners. Working together, the supervised/exchange program began. The visits and exchanges are held at the Child Protection Center and are scheduled upon referral from the Common Pleas Judges, both Juvenile and Criminal Divisions. The Child Protection Center's initial goal is to aid families in working together to provide a happy and hopeful environment for their children.

We welcome any questions or comments

SERVICES PROVIDED:

Supervised Exchanges:

The Child Protection Center provides a neutral exchange location. Exchanges are done on site for those parents who are not required to have supervised visitation with their children. Exchanges can be done with involvement from both parents or without interaction. The exchanges are monitored to ensure a non-confrontational exchange.

Supervised Visitation:

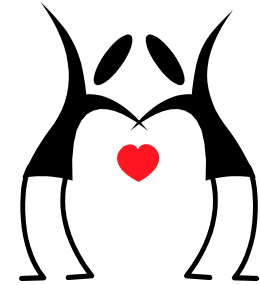

Visits are done on site and closely monitored by trained staff. If necessary, the monitor will intervene for the safety of the child(ren).

Our center is equipped with toys and games for all ages to promote interaction and fun activities for families.

Spot Checks:

At periods of intermittent times, the monitor will observe the visiting parent and child. The checks can be anywhere from 10, 15, 20 minute intervals, set accordingly to each case.

Visitation and Exchange hours are scheduled with the Visitation Coordinator by appointment only. The Child Protection Center is open Monday through Friday.
